

Confederation Park 55+ Activity Centre and artist, Tito Gomez are working together to produce a documentary with the purpose to generate dialogue, create meaningful connections and inspire new ways of engagement.

Tito is part of the Artist as Changemaker (AAC) project that was created in partnership with the Trico Changemakers Studio and Calgary Arts Development (CADA). Working in collaboration with high school students, the project is an initiative to expedite the capacity of socially engaged artists to create meaningful social change.

Tito is a filmmaker and storyteller. His films include: The Healing, Love of Two and Something ain't right. Tito's films have been featured at several film festivals including Indigenous Film Festival, Calgary International Film Festival and Victoria Film Festival.

If you are a high school student or know of one who would like to join this collaboration, please contact: Judy Dufort, Executive Assistant, Confederation Park 55+ Activity Centre, ea@yycseniors.com, no later than May 15.

For a more in-depth description of the program or to learn more about the artists, visit the website at: 21. Artist as Changemaker — ABSI Connect